At last there is a definite prospect that the central region of Washington territory knows as the Big Band country will be opened up to settlement and commerce. The Oregon Rail way & Navigation company, which has long had the scheme in contempiation, has determined to put beats on the Typer Columbia between Wallnia and Kettie Falls, if the thing can be dene, and within a few weeks Miniger Pres-cott will go over the whole course to verify by personal inspection the reports made by com-missioners who have examined carefully every mile of the route. It cannot be possible that he will find the situation other than as it has been represented by Capt. After Picgetone and others, who have declared that by the aid of four short portages it is entirely practicable to navigate the river at all seasons a distance of 4% miles above Wallola or nearly to the British Columbia line. From Wallula to Priest rapids there is 103 miles of unobstructed water An easy portage of seven miles leads to another clear streich of fifty miles to Rock island, where there must be a portage of eight miles. A portage of seven illes at the mouth of the Okanagan and possibly still another of one mile at Hell trate and the boa's and twenty three piles of railroad is nec cesary to make connection with the rails at Wallula. The cost of navigation under these conditions will be considerable, but still it will

The region tributary to the proposed truns portation has is about equal in extent to the whole of Western and Southern Oregon. The settlements are few and far between and the great bulk of the country is unoccupied an available for settlement under the land faws. Part of it has scarcely more than been exored. It is described as similar in its general characteristics to the Walla Walla and Clear water country, with the difference that it is fairly supplied with timper above the Spokage river. It is capable of sustaining an enormous population
The value of this region has long been known, but until quite recently he large and ticher sec-tions of it have been held in reserve for Indians, who are now provided for elsewhere—Both the Oregon Kailway & Navigation and the Northern Pacific companies have had an eye upon it, the idea of the latter being to plerce it by a brauch line of railroad west from Change or Suckane Falls The steamboat scheme is the batter one because it will reach the country at more points Its effect will be to connect the new country with Portland, whereas the Northern Pacific would take its business Fast or divert it, if possilie, to Puget sound over the proposed Cascade branch An immense body of land will be made available for settlement at once, but this will not be the only, possibly not the greatest benefit, of the proposed enterprise. The northern country is rich the mining population would be increased from bundreds to thousands and the product, of course, in proportion Indeed it is opening up a new and great territory and making the opportunity for enterprise in a hundred directions Speaking of great turiness openings some time ago, Capt J (Ameworth, for s) many years the leading spirit of the Oregon Steam Naviga tion company, said that he regarded the remote upper Columbia as one of the best fields for young blood on the American continenfully equal in its opportunities and prospects to this field when he and others entered it nearly

Portland cannot but derive great benefit from the development of this fine tributary country Here will naturally be its depot of supply and market. Our people will, we have no doubt, assist in promoting the interests of the new country in the various channels which neigh borship and mutual interest suggest Navigation of the upper (o umbia and settle-ment of the country adjacent to it will afford a new and powerful argument for the leared improvement of the Columbia river. The gov ernment, like the Almighty, is a helper of those who help themselves, and if boots were actu ally renning on the upper river, there certainly will be an effort to make the way easy for them

A SUBSTANTIAL INVIGATION

Statistics that were given to the public by the state board of immigration, through FHE ORE GONIAN, resterday, make a satisfactory showing class of immigrants that ar rived in this city last month He lice, representing a tota of $48 persons, most of whom came with the intention to engage in agricultural porsuits, and few of whom were in need of work to supply immediate necessities, is the record furnished for February Every thing is in favor of these new comers. The season of the year is the best, giving a full month in which to look around and select loca ons before the active work of spring planting begins The record shows, further, that these grants have, in addition to their well-defined intentions as settlers, credentials of former thrift and economy in the way of means to make a beginning n this state. They have, also, a proper estimate of the fact that industry be essential to success everywhere. Such purple as these are not likely to be disappointed in Oregon. Their desires are reasonable. Page expect to make a small investment, which is intelligent oversight will juid them a mi sler ite return, increasing soality as the years government. In this expectation to you no be disapposed. Every natural advantage is here. A delightful climate, productive soit, and unfat-ing crops of fruit, gran and repertules invite intelligent ignicultants to make the homes in Oregon Region ags now, he make in accordance with the means, and do to not be shunned. Intelligent abir and careful econmy will do the rest Oregon has ample roun or handreds of these quiet, unassuming home but for professional men, whether clerks, doctors, lawyers of 115 r agitators, there cerss, doctors, navyers on the ragilators there is no some on a new extensions. When the who understand their special that so has sober and willing to work can find hope year, but he say a greater part of the year, but he say lidlers, who are never too tirel from quick new hoses. day a work to sit up half the night to I sar pr fessions! 'workingmen runt about the hard ship attendant upon the lot of those who in ist ork to maintain themselves and their fami ies ould seek other localities— thregon has more than enough of these at present, and there is a limit to the capacity of if e state's prises

To those who come wishing an i intent ag to build up homes in this can e by honest investigation and faithful labor, This Onk Oxive extends cordial welcome—knowing the needs and resources of the state, the opportunity that in telligent endeavor makes for itself everywhere and the spenial advantages offered here in clim ate and productiveness, it is confident that new comers of the class described as the February immigration list will confuce by their personal prosperity to the prosper ty of the state

(an this be true, It would be too utterly dreadful if true. We wait for serification of so as ounding a report, which we give us we have it from the Oregon tity i territe. We are reliably informed that he proprietor of the Portland News has turn gitte anni-thi use agitation, employed Chinamen to do the washing

Again let us ask, can this be true Mere sug gestion of treason so rank may well make men particularly those who never have wishing done, ose heart in a holy cause

There are published in Portland three organs of the "great movement,"—he starm, the Newgard the logular luis It is hard to tell which organ is the most important of the three, which has most readers, or which is likely, in the outcome, to be the most considerable paper. It is neck and neck now.

INTERESTING INFORMATION

When Haskell got back to San Francisco be told astonishing stories about the wealth, induence and importance of those who participated in his "congress" here. He declared that the "congress" was "composed of the most representative men of the country," and strongly intimated that there was nobody of character in timated that there was nobody of character in the Northwest who did not fully approve its purpose and action. The wealth of the partie pants in the convention was specially puralled For instance for H W Ross, of Oregon City, worth $290,600 John Shanrin, of Beaverton, worth $160,000, James A high, com ty judge, from Baker City, worth $40000 and Bichard Gerdes of Portland, worth $5,000, were a few among the delegates, ever a score of whom were said to be worth over $50000. Here is highly important information for the assessors and taxpayers of several counties. It would be interesting to learn by what pro Haskell was able to discover these t therto un known quantities of wealth. Pout tless how ever, ty the same process that enalled him to discover the ammense respectability and highly representative character of the 'delegates Several papers in California seem to have swal lowed the lellow's story, including his fabricat ed version of the affair at 'scattle, which he presents as if be had witnessed it throughout, and was telling what was established beyon lall
